

MILKEN FAMILY FOUNDATION NATIONAL EDUCATOR AWARDS FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

1. What is the Milken Educator Award?

The Milken Family Foundation National Educator Award provides public recognition and an unrestricted financial award of $25,000 to elementary and secondary school teachers, principals and other education professionals who are furthering excellence in education.

2. How are Milken Educators selected?

Based on guidelines established by the Milken Family Foundation (see FAQ #3), the department of education in each of the 48 participating states and the District of Columbia appoints an independent blue-ribbon committee to recommend candidates. There is no formal nomination or application procedure for the Award.

3. What are the criteria for selection?

The criteria for the selection of outstanding elementary and secondary school teachers, principals and other education professionals as Milken Educators include all of the following:

- Exceptional educational talent as evidenced by effective instructional practices and student learning results in the classroom and school;
- Exemplary educational accomplishments beyond the classroom that provide models of excellence for the profession;
- Strong long-range potential for professional and policy leadership; and
- Engaging and inspiring presence that motivates and impacts students, colleagues and the community.

4. How are the Awards announced?

The main element is surprise! Each fall, newly selected recipients are taken completely by surprise at schoolwide assemblies. With an entourage of media and distinguished officials, a Foundation representative or the state chief of education typically notifies the recipient, often accompanied by the governor and other state and federal leaders.

5. Are the recipients required to do anything specific with their monetary awards?

Milken Educators may use their unrestricted $25,000 Awards in any way they wish. Many past recipients have used their Awards to finance their children's education or their own continuing education. Others have purchased equipment for their schools, established scholarships for their students, and even funded the adoption of children.

6. When do the recipients receive their monetary prize?

Recipients are notified of the Award during the program's National Notifications in the fall. The following April, they will participate in the Milken Family Foundation National Education Conference in Los Angeles, California, featuring an inspiring and emotional awards ceremony at which recipients receive their $25,000 checks.

7. Are both elementary and secondary school educators selected each year?

The Award alternates each year between elementary and secondary educators.

8. What other benefits besides the $25,000 do recipients receive?

- At the Milken National Education Conference, new recipients engage in professional development and examine solutions to significant issues in education with leaders from academia, government, business and the community.
- The Milken Educator Award's visibility and reputation results in new opportunities for educators to improve education at local, state and national levels. New recipients join the 2,200-strong Milken Educator Network, a rich resource accessible to fellow teachers, legislators, school boards and others who are shaping the future of education.
- Opportunity to participate in ongoing projects such as the Milken Festival for Youth and The Children of Willesden Lane.

9. Why does the program put such an emphasis on teacher quality?

Recognizing and rewarding quality educators has been a hallmark of the Milken Educator Awards program since its inception. However, due to the lack of opportunities for educators to thrive, more classroom teachers are leaving the profession and fewer young people are pursuing careers in education. The Milken Educator Awards aim to reverse this trend by focusing public attention on the need for excellent teachers and encouraging able, caring and creative people to join the teaching profession.

10. Besides the Milken Educator Awards, what other ways has the Milken Family Foundation worked toward meeting the crucial need for high-quality teachers?

While Milken Educators are a testament to America's many talented educators, the need to attract, develop, motivate and retain more high-caliber teachers remains a profound challenge. To address this need, the Milken Family Foundation created a complementary initiative to the Milken Educator Awards, known as the Teacher Advancement Program (TAP), to restructure and thus revitalize the teaching profession. Through sustained opportunities for career advancement, ongoing school-based professional development, instructionally focused accountability and performance-based compensation, TAP has already demonstrated meaningful progress in drawing more teachers to careers in K-12 education—and keeping them there. Since its inception in 1999, TAP has expanded to over 130 campuses, impacting more than 60,000 students and 4,000 teachers.

Based on TAP's rapid growth and results, as well as increasing demand for comprehensive teacher quality reforms nationwide, Lowell Milken established the National Institute for Excellence in Teaching (NIET) in 2006 to operate TAP as well as a Teacher Quality Best Practices Center, all to further the goal of a quality teacher for every classroom in America.

11. What are other areas of interest for the Milken Family Foundation?

The Milken Family Foundation was established in 1982 to discover and advance inventive ways of helping people help themselves and those around them lead productive and satisfying lives. The Santa Monica, California-based foundation advances this mission primarily through its work in education and medical research. Among Milken Family Foundation initiatives and grant-based programs are the following:

- National Institute for Excellence in Teaching (NIET)
- Teacher Advancement Program (TAP)
- Milken Festival for Youth
- Mike's Math Club
- Milken Scholars
- Milken Archive of American Jewish Music
- The Children of Willesden Lane
- American Epilepsy Society/Milken Family Foundation Epilepsy Research Award, Grant & Fellowship Program
